FROM THE CHAIR | JIM HERRON

At our December 5 luncheon, Arlo Haskell entertained us with a rollicking account of smugglers and tunnels and revolutionaries as he talked about his new book, The Jews of Key West. Arlo sent us a lovely e-mail after our lunch. Here's an excerpt: "[I] wanted to say how much I enjoyed visiting the Prologue Society ... I had heard enough about the Society ... so that I knew to expect an unusually engaged and intelligent audience ... It was an honor to be part of your impressive series."

Registration is now open for our next two events: On Wednesday, January 17, Simon Sebag Montefiore will join us for the first event of our spring season to discuss his new novel, Red Sky at Noon. Montefiore is a great favorite with Prologue Society members, so be sure to register early. We're expecting a large crowd.

On Wednesday, February 22, Bijan Omrani, a brilliant young British historian, will discuss his new book, Caesar's Footprints, a story of the conquest of Gaul and the beginning of a modern Europe.

Stay tuned for our coming announcement of March and April speakers.

Best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy Chanukah to you all!

Red Sky at Noon

Epic history meets epic literature with Simon Sebag Montefiore, the New York Times bestselling author of Jerusalem and The Romanovs.

Montefiore discusses his stunning new Red Sky at Noon, set during an epic cavalry ride across the hot grasslands outside Stalingrad during the darkest times of World War II—and the incredible history behind it.

Imprisoned in the Gulags for a crime he did not commit, Benya Golden joins a penal battalion made up of Cossacks and convicts to fight the Nazis. He enrolls in the Russian cavalry, and on a hot summer day in July 1942, he and his band of brothers are sent on a suicide mission behind enemy lines—but is there a traitor among them? The only things Benya can truly trust are his horse, Silver Socks, and that he will find no mercy in the onslaught of Hitler's troops as they push East.

Spanning ten epic days, between Benya's war on the grasslands of southern Russia and Stalin's intrigues in the Kremlin, between Benya's intense affair with an Italian nurse and a romance between Stalin's daughter and a war correspondent, this is a sweeping story of passion, bravery, and survival—where betrayal is a constant companion, death just a heartbeat away, and love, however fleeting, offers a glimmer of redemption.

"Enthralling. Montefiore, hailed for his works of history and biography, is masterly at sketching scenes—passionate, melancholy, menacing—and limning characters. In a league of its own." - The Wall Street Journal, "Best Book of the Year" (Praise for THE MOSCOW TRILOGY)

"Montefiore is a natural storyteller who brings his encyclopedic knowledge of Russian history to life in language that glitters. Montefiore shows that the historian seeking the truth must call upon creativity as much as upon meticulous research. Here's hoping we get more spellbinding historical fiction from him." - The Washington Post

"Intensely moving, with an unforgettable climax that will touch the hardest heart." - Jung Chang, author of Wild Swans and Mao
