

October 3, 2022

Dear Members and Friends of Prologue,

What a great pleasure it is to invite you all to lunch to meet your friends, make new acquaintances and listen to some of the best authors in the world discuss their new books. On a day that I thought might never come, I am now delighted to tell you that we have a wonderful lineup of authors who will join us for lunch in October, November and December at our new venue, Temple Israel, located at 137 NE 19 St., just north of downtown Miami.

Fall Registration is Open | Here's the schedule so far, with each luncheon beginning at 12 Noon:

- Tuesday, October 18: David Maraniss, Path Lit by Lightning: The Life of Jim Thorpe
- Monday, November 21: Stacy Schiff, The Revolutionary: Samuel Adams
- Monday, December 12: Ada Ferrer, Cuba: An American History (Winner of the Pulitzer Prize)

We are very close to finalizing our list of authors for the winter and spring of 2023 and we'll let you know who and when as soon as we know.

Thanks to the generosity of an anonymous donor, we are going to livestream our October 18 lunch with David Maraniss for those of our members who cannot or prefer not to come to lunch in person at Temple Israel. After the lunch, we will evaluate the system and, most importantly, your response, to decide if and how we should go forward with livestreaming.

For those of you who are not members of The Prologue Society, this is the time to join. For members who have not renewed, this is the time to renew. Please tell your literate, book loving friends about us and most of all, come have lunch with us. We can't wait to see you.

Best regards,

Jim Herron
Board Chair
